Emerson Study Class

The Emerson Study Class will meet on Monday, February 14, and each Monday evening thereafter at 8 o'clock at the Metaphysical Library rooms, 432 W. Fourth street. Mrs. Hunter Jones will lead the class in the interpretation of the writings of this widely read author.

Prices at the Glendale market have not changed on account of high wholesale prices. Try us and see.

BAPTIST CHURCH.

After the regular prayer meeting service Thursday evening, Feb. 10th, the pastor offered his resignation to the church as pastor. The church appointed Wednesday evening, the 9th, to consider the resignation, which came up last Wednesday evening as appointed, and upon a vote being taken it was accepted. While all regretted very much that it was the wish of the pastor that he lay the work down at this time, a resolution was unanimously voted that a committee be appointed by the church and convey to pastor the regrets of all in the matter. Preaching next Sunday, both morning and evening services by the pastor.

At the evening service the pastor will preach his farewell sermon.

PRACTICAL CHRISTIANITY CENTER.

Meetings at 432 West Fourth street as follows:

Sunday school at 3 o'clock. Bible class giving spiritual interpretation of the International Sunday School lessons taught by Miss Suzanne Dean of Los Angeles.

Talks on vital truths of Christianity practically applied each Wednesday at 2:45 by Miss Eva Fulton of the Home of Truth, Los Angeles.

Mrs. Zona Maxson Pringey, healer and librarian, extends a welcome at all times to those seeking help or information.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

The Rev. J. Henry Chase of Burbank will occupy the pulpit of the Presbyterian church next Sabbath morning in exchange with the pastor. From former experience of Mr. Chase's sermons a treat is expected. In the evening the pastor will preach on "Poetic Justice."

At a meeting of the trustees held on Wednesday evening it was decided to call a meeting of the congregation for February 23 to push the matter of church erection which has been delayed by a combination of causes. Plans for the building have been adopted and considerable money subscribed. Present accommodations are entirely inadequate, both for Sabbath school and for the church services.

Mr. Fairchild, who bought the old High School building and wrecked it, has presented to the new church the furnace which heated the old school building.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH.

J. F. Humphrey, Pastor.

The pastor will preach both morning and evening: Morning, "Paul a Debtor;" evening, "Three Crosses."

Epworth League devotional meeting. Subject, "The True Dignity of Human Life." Amos 9:7; Ps. 87:4. Florence Magordan and Grace Patten, leaders.

Tuesday night, class in the study of the doctrines and usages of the church.

ST. MARK'S CHURCH, EPISCOPAL.

Every Friday afternoon at 4 o'colck, service and brief address at the church.

Every Wednesday afternoon cottage meeting in different parts of the city as announced, at 3:30 p. m., to which especially the residents of the immediate neighborhood are invited. Next Wednesday at home of R. C. Sternberg, North Glendale.

At Sunday school, final distribution of the Lenten missionary boxes, through which the scholars are asked by self denials and personal effort to give at least one penny each day during the forty days of Lent.

On Sunday morning Mr. Shelby, field secretary of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, will speak to the congregation on the work of men and women for God's kingdom. All men are especially urged to be present to hear this earnest and devoted layman. At the Sunday evening services, at 7:30, during Lent, a series of addresses will be given on "The Kingdom," the subject Sunday evening being, "The Book of the Kingdom—The Bible." "Turn ye even unto Me, saith the Lord, with all your heart."

GLENDALE, TROPICO AND VICINITY

Information of Interest—A Rapidly Growing Community

LOCATION.

Tropico joins the northern boundary of the City of Los Angeles, distant about five miles in a direct line from the court house in that city. Glendale adjoins Tropico on the north (the city limits six miles distant in an air line from the Los Angeles court house), while Casa Verdugo lies at the base of the mountains, at the end of the Pacific Electric car line north of and adjoining Glendale—with West and North Glendale practically a part of the same settlement, lying west of the Pacific Electric road.

The elevation of Glendale above sea level is six hundred feet, while Tropico is about 100 feet lower. Casa Verdugo is situated at the base of the mountain and from that point a trail runs to the summit, where the elevation is about 3800 feet.

Car Service.

The car service is excellent. On the west side of the city is the Pacific Electric line, cars running on half-hourly schedules between the depot at Sixth and Main streets, Los Angeles, and Glendale. The service on this line is unexcelled on any of the suburban lines connecting with Los Angeles, the actual running time is twenty-five minutes. Single fare 15 cents, round trips 25 cents; ten rides for one dollar; commutation rate 77-10 cents. An independent electric railway has recently been completed across Glendale from the Pacific Electric line on Brand boulevard, extending eastward to Eagle Rock, two miles distant, and connecting at that place with the cars of the Los Angeles Railway company to Los Angeles. It is therefore possible for the visitor to enjoy a delightful round trip from Los Angeles, passing through beautiful Eagle Rock, Glendale and over the most attractive route of the Pacific Electric [illegible] through Tropico and the Elysian Park hills. Cars run half hourly on both lines, the Pacific Electric cars leaving Sixth and Main streets and the Eagle Rock cars starting from 12th and Main and running along Broadway. Round trip fare between Glendale and Los Angeles by this route is 25 cents with transfer privileges in Los Angeles. The main line of the Southern Pacific company between Los Angeles and San Francisco passes through Tropico, which is the first station on the road north of Los Angeles. The San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake Railway company owns a steam road running through Tropico and Glendale to Verdugo Canon, two miles above Glendale. At present only freight traffic is handled on this line, but that is considerable, as Glendale has four packing houses where oranges and lemons are being handled all the year round and a great many car loads of these and of deciduous fruits leave the valley yearly by the Salt Lake company's line. That this line will soon be converted into an electric road is confidently expected.

Mail Service and Streets.

Free delivery of mail matter went into effect in Glendale and portions of Tropico on February 1st, when Glendale, for postal purposes, passed under control of the Los Angeles postoffice. This service is gradually being extended so as to take in every portion of the city and considerable of the contiguous territory.

Beginning at First street, which is near the city's north boundary, the numbered streets run east and west, the city limits on the south being halfway between Ninth and Tenth streets. Beginning at Adams street, the streets running north and south on the west are named in alphabetical order the next west of Adams being Belmont, the next Cedar, etc., the last street so named being Orange street; next beyond which is Central avenue, the western boundary of the city.

The original townsite of Glendale (laid out in 1887), comprised the territory between Adams street and Mary street and between First and Seventh streets, and the most of the recent development of the city has been west of Adams street.

Schools.

Tropico has a fine new school building in which six teachers are employed, the enrollment being about 220 students. West Glendale school has three teachers and 170 pupils. The two Glendale grammar schools employ ten teachers and have about 420 pupils. The new $60,000 Union High school at Glendale ranks among the very best in the state. The faculty comprises six teachers and about 200 pupils are enrolled.

Churches.

Glendale is well supplied with churches. The following denominations have places of worship here: Adventist, Baptist, Catholic, Christian, Episcopal, Methodist and Presbyterian.

Organizations.

Social and Fraternal organizations are well represented. Among the ladies clubs are the Thursday Afternoon Club of Tropico, the Tuesday Afternoon Club, the Maids and Matrons and the P. E. O.'s. The lodges meeting in Glendale are the Masons, Odd Fellows, K. of P., Foresters, Fraternal Brotherhood. Fraternal Union and Good Templars. The W. C. T. U. and various church societies are all growing in numbers and influence. The Glendale Country Club has a $12,000 club house, over a hundred members, and is an important factor in the social life of the city.

Population.

The population of Glendale City is about twenty-five hundred, while that of Tropico, West and North Glendale and Casa Verdugo combined is about the same, making a total of 5000 people within a radius of two and a half miles. This is increasing very rapidly, the number of new homes being erected all over this section indicating a doubling of this population within the next three years.

Development.

In 1903 Messrs. Thom and Ross sold a large tract of land on the west side to L. C. Brand and H. W. Huntington, and to develop that property the electric road, now a part of the Pacific Electric system, was built in 1904, being completed in July of that year. The effect of the building of this road putting this section in close contact with Los Angeles, was immediate and from that time to this there has been a constant influx of home builders into this portion of the great San Fer[illegible] The great growth of the City of Glendale, however, dates from the time of its incorporation, February 7th, 1906. Since that time twenty miles of streets have been improved by the petrolithic process, costing approximately $150,000, most of which has been paid for, there being only about $25,000 of bonds for this work outstanding. The city voted a bond issue of $5000 for a fire department (the bonds selling for about $6000) and has a brick fire building and complete apparatus for extinguishing fires. A municipal electric lighting plant supplying the entire city and costing $60,000 is now being installed. On Brand boulevard there is almost a solid street block of brick business structures, nearly all two stories, while on Glendale avenue and Fourth street three two-story brick blocks have been erected within the past six months. Another two-story brick block is now under way at Fourth and Glendale avenue, and two one-story blocks are being erected at Fourth and Brand.

Two of the roads to be built by the Los Angeles highway commission out of the bond issue of $3,500,000, pass through Glendale and when completed will put Glendale and Tropico on the route to be followed by the grand system of highways that is to lead from the mountains of San Bernardino county to the sea. The Owens river water system will be led through the San Fernando valley to Los Angeles, passing through this immediate section.

Advantages Claimed.

This portion of the San Fernando valley claims as its first asset, its close proximity to Los Angeles. It appeals to the home builder particularly on this account, as it affords him all the advantages of both city and country—only a little more than half an hour of time spans the distance between the city and the mountains. This fact appeals not only to the person of leisure but also to the tiller of the soil or the person who in any avenue of usefulness produces that which he needs to find a market for—and who realizes the immense advantages of finding that market near at hand. Another feature of this section which is not generally found, is its infinite variety. Within a limited radius there exists notable gradations of soil, climate, scenery. A portion is entirely frostless while the soil may be adapted to the cultivation of the citrus fruits, while another part not far removed may be subject to more or less frost with a soil where certain trees and crops will do well without irrigation. One portion of the valley may be protected from the ocean breezes while another is subject to it whenever it blows. But over all is the warmth of the southern sunshine and around it all the invigorating atmosphere of the semi-tropics—not the Italy of our dreams with a glorious past, but the California of today with a present of wonderful attainment and a future that is gilded with all the brightness that the optimist can mix in his colors.

Fresh fish at the Glendale Market all the time during Lent. Also oysters in cans.

A FINE ESTABLISHMENT.

An establishment which would be a credit to a city of the first class and is certainly a valuable acquisition to Glendale, is the new millinery store of Mrs. C. H. Eudemiller in the new Flower building, corner of Fourth street and Brand boulevard. The two large plate glass windows give a fine opportunity for a window display which has been taken advantage of by Mrs. Eudemiller in a most artistic manner. The eucalyptus portiers through which the light filters while yet serving as a background for a display of peculiar attractiveness, are unique as well as beautiful. Within, there is another piece of work with ornamentations in designs similar to the portieres, and that is a eucalyptus screen, made to order and fitting in harmoniously with the artistic scheme of furnishings. Two solid walnut dressers with large mirrors are a prominent feature in the furniture of the sales room. A large show case with glass front runs along the rear of the room with individual accommodations for a large number of hats. There are smaller show cases for ornaments of various kinds, and one is filled with wonderful creations of brilliant flowers, the work of French artists who cater to the love of the beautiful inherent in the feminine mind. Another case is devoted to a variety of silk trimmings in imitation of leaves, garlands, sheaves, etc. One case has ostrich plumes and the wings of birds.

Here and there are potted plants that contribute an additional charm. The electric lights are arranged so as to produce a pleasing effect, kaleidescopic in variety.

Altogether, an inspection will show that Mrs. Eudemiller is not making a vain boast when she says that her display is equal in quality to anything that the larger city has to offer.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON CLUB.

The Tuesday Afternoon club met in regular session on February 8th in the Guild hall. It was the day devoted to politics. Mrs. A. S. Thatcher, acting chairman of the day, had secured the services of Prof. A. L. Handley, of Occidental college, to make the address. Prof. Handley is one of the well known workers in the good government movement, and proving himself an eloquent speaker with a most vital subject, his talk was thus one that every man as well as women in Glendale should have heard.

Among just a few of the points made, he was very strong in his statement that a great deal of the trouble with our government lies in the fact that the character building of the men has not been strong enough. The recall and the referendum would be unknown if the men behind the laws had good strong characters. Another statement made was that it matters not what party a man belongs to, as long as that man is a friend of the people instead of a friend of the corporations. Intensely interesting were his statements in regard to the police department—the inhuman methods used, by means of which many innocent people are imprisoned. In fact, his whole address was full to overflowing of good things and points that ought to be remembered and profited by the women who heard them, if it ever comes our way to vote.

The next meeting will be book review. Captain J. H. Wells will read from his book "With Touch of Elbow." Mrs. D. H. Imler will review "To Have and to Hold." Mrs. J. C. Danford will speak of "Margaret Collier Graham and Her Works." Mrs. R. A. Blackburn will review "Cranford," and the Cranford ladies will serve tea. Members are requested to read the above mentioned books.

A SURPRISE PARTY.

On Tuesday noon, February 8th, the teachers of the Fourth street grammar school were delightfully entertained at luncheon by Mrs. W. L. Hovis of West Fourth street. A delicious repast of several courses was prepared and served at the noon hour in the office of the building. Needless to say, it was much appreciated by the recipients, who voted the hostess a jolly good neighbor as well as an excellent cook.

DOG OWNERS TAKE NOTICE!

The ordinance requiring the muzzling of all dogs running at large is now in force, as is also the law requiring a tax of two dollars for every dog within the city limits. Dog owners who permit their animals to run around at liberty must take the risk of having them shot by the city marshal in the performance of his duty.

W. C. T. U. MEETING.

Next Friday afternoon, February 18, at Mrs. Samuel Dick's, 127 Brand boulevard. Mrs. Hester T. Griffith, state president will be present and a large attendance is desired.

The old reliable Glendale Market, first in quality, lowest in prices. Ever ready to serve, either large or small quantities, anywhere, any time.

SPORTS

Something Doing in Baseball

The new suits for the team have arrived and can be seen at the Glendale Hardware store.

The money received from sale of seats and collections taken at the free games will go to the purchasing of the cup after expenses of the games are deducted. All come and help the boys.

Subscriptions are being collected for the new ball suits which have now been received, but those whom Mr. Valentine has not seen can leave their donations at the Glendale News, or Glendale Bank and tickets given to the full amount of their subscription.

The opening baseball game of the Grammar School league was postponed until today owing to the withdrawal of the West Glendale school. The teams now entered in the contest for the cup to be offered for the winning team are Tropico, Fourth street and Sixth street.

Fourth street grammar school ball team defeated Sixth street team in a practice game on the Glendale ball park last Saturday afternoon by the score of 14 to 6. The two teams played on only a few days' notice and both teams give promise of a hot game in the regular league game to be played Feb. 19.

Santa Monica High School, Feb. 8th,
Mr. Earl B. Valentine,
Glendale, Cal.

Dear Sir: The Santa Monica high school team will play the Glendale city team on Washington's birthday under the previous agreement. Hope this is satisfactory. Will send line-up later.

Sincerely yours,
D. SWINNEY, Manager.

Following is the schedule Mr. Valentine has prepared for the boys: Tropico vs Sixth Street, Saturday, Feb. 12; Sixth Street vs Fourth Street, Saturday, Feb. 19; Tropico vs Fourth Street, Saturday, Feb. 26.

In the event of a tie between two teams for the most number of games, an additional game will be played and the cup presented at final game.

GLENDALE IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION.

An association with the above title has been organized for the purpose of aiding in every practical manner the upbuilding of Glendale and vicinity. It held its second meeting last Tuesday evening at Roman's furniture store, Sixth and Brand. Mr. J. W. Usilton acted as temporary president and Mr. E. H. Kerker, as temporary secretary. A committee on by-laws made a report, which was adopted with some slight changes. When the election of permanent officers took place, the temporary president and secretary were made permanent and Mr. W. A. Echols was elected vice president. A number of committees were appointed, among them one on membership, another on improvements and one to assist the Board of Trade committee in the work of celebrating the completion of the electric lighting system, the latter being composed as follows: Messrs. Dominy, Rudy, Miner, Miller and Roman. A political committee was also appointed to make a report at the next meeting. There were about thirty members present and considerable enthusiasm was manifested. A number of topics were discussed, among them the question of annexation to Los Angeles; in regard to the latter a test vote was called for resulting as follows: In favor of annexation 7, opposed 17. The question of annexation to Glendale of adjacent territory was also discussed, the sentiment being apparently largely in favor of it. Owing to uncertainty as to meeting place available, when the meeting adjourned it was to meet on Friday evening, Feb. 18th, at Mr. Coker's store on Brand boulevard, possibly there to adjourn to a hall if advisable. The regular meeting night is fixed for the last Friday evening in the month. All citizens of Glendale are invited to join.

WOMEN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY OF GLENDALE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

The regular January meeting of this society was omitted in order not to hinder attendance upon the evangelistic services then in progress in Filger Hall.

The February meeting will occur on Tuesday next, Feb. 15, 2:30 p. m., at the home of Mrs. S. C. Porter, 821 W. Fifth street. Home Mission topic, "Our Indians." Foreign topic, "China."

The latter is of special interest because of the rapid advance in that great nation, in respect of civil and political conditions, and in the spread of Christianity among the people.

All our women who are interested in missions are invited to be present.

AT THE SANITARIUM.

Among late arrivals at the Sanitarium are the following: Mrs. G. E. Shoemaker, Los Angeles; C. E. Gale, Calexico; J. P. Hendricks, Chicago; Mrs. F. L. Holbrook, Huron, S. D.; Marian Comstock, San Fernando; Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Wallace, oLs Angeles; Lyman Burt, Los Angeles; F. W. Yaeger, Fullerton, Cal.

GLENDALE, CAL., FEBRUARY 12, 1910

ANNOUNCEMENT.

With the hope of putting the NEWS into every home in Glendale, Tropico and vicinity, we have engaged Mr. E. B. Valentine as subscription manager and general business solicitor. Mr. Valentine is authorized to collect money on subscription and other accounts and give receipts in his own name. We feel that the paper merits the patronage of everybody having an interest in this vicinity and are ambitious to make it in every respect worthy of general support. We wish it to represent impartially all sections and every legitimate enterprise in the community and hope that our people will give us their assistance in making this publication a journal of ever-increasing influence for the general good.

THE PUBLISHER.

Anaheim boasts that the municipality has no delinquent tax list; certainly a fact worth mentioning and probably unprecedented in any other city.

Poor Fairbanks, he has squared himself with the Methodists, but everlastingly lost the Catholic vote. Fate is surely unkind to some shining marks.

Gov. Marshall of Indiana, is said to be looked upon by the Democracy as possible presidential timber. He is a brainy man and deserves a better fate.

'Tis said now that Peary is going after the South pole. Before he starts he had better make sure that a gentlemanly medical man named Cook isn't on the way home with it.

Sierra Madre with, a population of 1500, and a city of the Sixth class, never had a lodge of any secret order within its limits until the Masons organized last week. The NEWS of that city congratulates the people that the "joiners" are not as numerous there as elsewhere.

The little fat baby of Mrs. Katherine Vanderbilt Somebody, Countess of Something or other, fell out of its carriage in Central park, N. Y., the other day and was rescued by its five-year-old sister and two nurses—which very important event gives occasion for a "Direct Wire" to a great Los Angeles daily!

The "Direct Wire" service is certainly a great news gatherer. One of its recent triumphs is a story about a negro baby being born in Arkansas, supplied with horns, tail and sharp teeth. Why don't the great dailies keep liars of their own? It would save telegraphic tolls.

In his talk before the Tuesday Afternoon Club Tuesday last, Prof. Handley said some things which are quite worth while, particularly in regard to the question of Woman Suffrage. While stating that he favored equal suffrage, he said that he should not do so if he thought that in any way or to any degree it would make woman less faithful to the first duty of womankind, the making of the home and rearing of the children of the race. The most essential thing to good government he believed, is the proper training of the child and nothing else should interfere with that most important duty. He also reminded the ladies that not more than fifty per cent of the men of the country who possess the franchise exercise it. He had no doubt but that the mere fact that woman does not have the franchise is responsible for the great desire of many of them to possess it. If voters who do not exercise their privilege of voting should be deprived of that right, they would doubtless protest very emphatically against the injustice.

There is a manifest tendency to charge to society in general all the defects, delinquencies, suffering and crimes which make the reading of some newspapers a daily horror. Social conditions are such, it is said, that these evils are inevitable, and especially industrial conditions are said to be the prolific cause of all evil. The tendency is to relieve the individual of all personal responsibility, to do away with the discipline which was once considered essential to the education of the young and the training of those who do the world's work. The book of Proverbs is filled with wholesome instruction directed against the idle, thriftless, improvident, and vicious men and women who bring upon themselves deserved miseries and lay upon society undeserved burdens and unpleasant duties. The tendency now is to regard all such teaching as obsolete, to relieve the individual from all responsibility for his [illegible] of self-control, his ugly temper, and his habit of robbing society for his own benefit. But nothing can safely take the place of moral training, nor absolve the individual from moral responsibility.—Christian Register.

STANTON—FLINT AND THE TIMES

Our versatile contemporary, the Los Angeles Times, now refers to him as "Hon. Philip Stanton," and seems to have picked that gentleman out as its candidate for governor in the coming campaign; although with a canny reticence it does not quite put him in nomination. It was not long ago that "Phil Stanton" was the way in which he was referred to invariably in the columns of the same paper and his actions as a legislator were not usually alluded to in phrase of compliment. Another gentleman, prominent now as a senator of the United States and high in the favor of the Times, was not so from the beginning. Indeed, he was charged with being the property more or less of the Southern Pacific Railroad company, and accused of securing his election through the influence of that corporation, personified especially in Walter F. X. Parker, boss. The Hon. Frank Flint has climbed up very rapidly into the favor of the Times since he secured the endorsement of Senator Aldrich and the coterie that represents the "Interests" in the august United States senate. And, by the way, some of the friends of Senator Flint are saying that the reason for his decision not to be a candidate for re-election, is that he has lost favor with the Southern Pacific Railroad company, and cannot secure the support of that unpolitical altruistic aggregation of philanthropists. There is a possibility of truth in the idea, but we await verification by the Times. If that paper turns against the Honorable Senator from the South, we shall be convinced that the story is true. If it continues to support him, we shall be harassed with doubts.

THE CITY AND COUNTY CONSOLIDATION QUESTION.

One of the best arguments we have seen against proposed consolidation of the city and county of Los Angeles, is made in a communication published in the Los Angeles Times, from Hon. N. W. Thompson, state senator, residing at Alhambra. Mr. Thompson is particularly well qualified to pass judgment on the matter, as he is thoroughly familiar with the workings of city and county government and with the law under which they work. We indicated in the editorial columns of the NEWS a short time ago the extent to which we believed this consolidation would be beneficial and that is to the extent of combining the offices of the two governments under some practicable plan for the sake of economy, and we note that the communication referred to favors just this idea. Mr. Thompson says: "A multiplicity of small counties (referring to the suggestion to cut off the eastern end of Los Angeles county), is a menace and a source of weakness to any state government . . . I believe the state should oppose all schemes for the division of counties."

It will be remembered that a short time ago the Los Angeles Express and a few more panderers to popularity tried to get up a sentiment in favor of the division of the state, which fell flat. At that time this paper called attention to the fact that by the census of 1910 Southern California would be given a representation in the legislature under the new apportionment which would enable us to hold the northern part of the state in check as far as legislation is concerned and offset the dominance which San Francisco has heretofore exercised at Sacramento. This idea is also confirmed by Mr. Thompson and he believes that it will not be long before this section by reason of its rapidly increasing population will dominate the state. He calls attention to the fact that any legislative measures enabling Los Angeles county to form the consolidation, would have to be general in its nature, applying to all counties alike, and that an effort has been made for years to combine counties up around the bay for the express purpose of forming a municipality larger than Los Angeles. We regret that lack of space prevents our copying Mr. Thompson's letter.

WANTED—AN ISSUE.

The Democratic party in endeavoring to find some excuse for its continued existence, feels encouraged at the present agitation over high prices and will no doubt make all possible political capital out of the fact that the price of everything has increased during the last decade. We doubt, however, if they will succeed in saddling all of the responsibility for this condition upon the party in power. Some of it the Republicans may quite cheerfully assume. If we must have one of the two extremes in values, there is not much doubt but that the great majority of the people will prefer the era of high prices rather than the reverse condition. While it is true perhaps that of all commodities labor is the last to increase in value, yet it cannot [illegible] prevail for commodities in general, labor does not fail to secure a very considerable portion of the benefit by reason of the increased demand. When the Democratic party went out of power in the government on the first of January, 1897, there was no one complaining that prices were too high. With the laboring man at that time it was not so much a question of wages as of work, and the great problem that confronted the Republican party and the newly elected president, Wm. McKinley, was how to help him secure it.

This help was given him very speedily with most beneficent results, and was brought about very largely by the successful working out of two issues, viz.: the establishment of a sound money system and the building up of a protective tariff. The one restored confidence and the other built up industries. This is not used as a political argument but as a mere statement of an historical fact, the recitation of which goes far to show that when the Democrats attempt to make capital out of the question of increased prices, they invite comparisons which will not help their cause. At the same time we would like to see the Democratic party put itself squarely upon some issue that has merit enough in it to revive that interesting old political corpse and restore to it some measure of usefulness. We are prepared to believe that the Republican party needs something in the nature of a check to awaken its conscience and arouse it to a sense of responsibility. Political parties are no more infallible than the men who control them, and he is a blind partisan indeed who imagines that his party is altogether perfect.

CONCERNING WASTE.

A high official of Japan recently on a visit to the United Sattes, on being asked what impressed him most in this country replied, "Your wastefulness. It is a wonderful country, but you waste so much." Mr. Wm. C. Brown, a vice president of the New York Central and Hudson River railroad system, who as a business man has studied conditions carefully for many years, said in a recent speech, "We must increase production per acre by more intelligent methods, or we must face the relentless, certain day when we shall not produce food enough to supply our own necessities." We believe that it was in California that the Japanese quoted, expressed the above opinion. Wastefulness is probably more general on the opulent Pacific Coast than anywhere on the globe, outside of the tropics. Nature has been prodigal and we take from her all that by crude and careless methods we can force her to produce, usually returning nothing in its place. This is particularly noticeable in our farming methods. The soil for a crop of grain is barely scratched in the plowing and year after year the same kind of a crop is sowed with a constantly diminishing yield. Time was, and not so long ago, that we had in Southern California a large acreage planted to deciduous fruit trees; but the orchards were dug up, the land subdivided and now instead of raising peaches we raise prices—on town lots. But the waste in this way is only one of the most serious; we waste in consumption as well as production. Our back yards are littered up with refuse which to a thrifty European or Asiatic mind would promise joy and high profit in the gleaning. Our agricultural colleges and experimental stations are doing a good work, and "intensive farming" is becoming recognized as a science which cannot be safely ignored.

The "waste" of money of which we have a good deal, is one of the least serious. Money may be misspent and wasted as far as the individual is concerned, but society at large does not suffer when the individual puts it in circulation, however recklessly. Is not the general understanding of the term "conservation of natural resources," too narrow in its application? Is it only our forests and our water power that must be conserved, or should there not be a conservation of all the gifts of bountiful nature. If the present generation cared anything for posterity, we might well be alarmed at the ultimate result when habits of wastefulness are constantly increasing and the supply upon which we draw is as surely diminishing all the time.

The Myosotis club was entertained Thursday evening of last week by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jay Fish, at their new bungalow on Mary street. Mrs. Bourne of Eagle Rock and Mr. Whaley being the winners of the first prizes.

CITY TRUSTEES

The Usual Demands and Reports—Mock the Only Bidder on Glendale Avenue and Eighth Street—Water Supply to be Investigated

All members present. Demands were read and referred, and previous demands reported back from committee approved. The committee to whom was referred the question of suggesting the place for the erection of a W. C. T. U. fountain, asked for further time. The report of the tax collector on delinquent taxes was returned for correction. The report of the manager of the electric lighting department was received. The clerk reported having communicated with the general manager of the Pacific Electric company as requested at last meeting, and that an answer had been received which was read and on motion referred to the committee on public works and the city engineer to fix a time for the proposed conference. The city attorney reported that condemnation proceedings on Sixth street had been begun. A communication was read from the city of South Pasadena requesting the presence of the city officials at a celebration of Washington's birthday. Bids for the improvement of Eighth street were opened and declared as follows: Geo. B. Mock, grading, 35c; oiling, 1¾c; curb 25c. Bids for the improvement of Glendale avenue were opened and declared as follows: Geo. B. Mock, grading 50c, oiling and tamping 4¾c, curb 25c.

A permit was granted H. M. Merrill to put up a building on El Rose street for laundry purposes. The city treasurer was instructed to furnish official bond.

An ordinance amending ordinance No. 21 passed third reading and was adopted. The board took up the question of investigating the water supply and decided to request the representatives of the different water companies to be present at the meeting of February 16th. The city marshal was instructed to distribute 500 notices warning owners that unmuzzled dogs will be destroyed. The president was authorized to secure assistance for the city marshal when necessary. The matter of securing a general dumping ground referred to committee consisting of Messrs. Blackburn and Anderson. The street superintendent instructed to procure a spiked tooth disc for trial in working on street repairs. The superintendent was instructed to purchase a tank for oil. Specifications for street lighting fixtures and cross arms as presented by manager of the electric lighting department, and marked specifications No. 2, were adopted. The clerk was instructed to advertise for bids for material for light department insurance and $2000 on stock of the lighting department was authorized.

OUR MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

Editor the NEWS:

The time of our Glendale city election is now approaching. We are to elect three councilmen in place of Messrs. Blackburn, White and Grant a city clerk in place of Mr. Woodberry and a marshal in place of Mr. Miller. I do not believe we can do better than to elect Mr. Woodberry again, as he has gained by experience already what a new man would have to gain in the same way. He has been a courteous capable and efficient official and probably will have no competitor.

Mr. Miller, of course, as marshal has gained by experience what a new man would not have and I understand is willing to run again for the position. Whether he will have a competitor or not doth not yet appear.

But the most important of all is the choice of the three councilmen.

I understand Mr. Grant will not be a candidate, while Messrs. Blackburn and White are willing to run for the positions by election which they now hold by appointment to fill vacancies. Both of these are good men, thoroughly honest as all our officials have been and are capable and very efficient. Their experience already gained gives them some advantage over any new men; but this is not everything, and both will probably have competition.

I have heard that Mr. Harry Coker is willing to try again for a place on the council and if other new names are to be considered I would suggest the names of Mr. Brockman, in the extreme eastern part of town on the Sinclair tract, and Messrs. Lane and Colby, who live in Lomita Park. Mr. Lane attracted favorable attention by his influence at the high school meeting by which a much better price was obtained for the school property than seemed at all probable. The other gentlemen named are reported as being good business men as well as firm on all moral questions that may possibly arise.

Now as to the manner of nominations. By petition, I believe, is the way we formally place candidates in nomination. But unless it is in some way predetermined who shall be petitioned for, this is likely to result in weakness and scatteration. Almost any man can go out and get names enough to put him on the ticket, consequently men go in by small pluralities. I hold every official should have a majority of the voters back of him and not a plurality merely which means a minority. The caucus method too is unsatisfactory, because a man is often nominated not because he is wanted, but because his friends can "carry the caucus" for him, and it is considered dishonorable for a voter to attend a caucus and not be bound by its nominations, which he ought not to be, I think, if he can find better men to vote for. The only use of a caucus is to get candidates put up, and it serves the purpose poorly. I believe the best way is a preliminary election or "straw vote" to see who has most favor with the voters, and I propose such a "straw vote" here in Glendale, to be conducted in the following manner. I suggest a committee if they will consent to act of the following gentlemen: Mr. J. C. Sherer, assisted by Mr. James H. Wells and Mr. Ezra Parker. Voters of Glendale are to send in a sealed envelope to Mr. Sherer, up till a definite date, their preferences for three citizens for councilman, one for city clerk, and one for marshal, signing their names and address to the nominating paper. When the time limit shall have expired let the envelopes be opened and the votes canvassed by the committee who shall be under pledge of secrecy not to reveal whom any voter nominated, then let the entire result be printed in the NEWS, and let the six having the highest number of votes be properly nominated by petition as candidates for councilman, the two having the highest number for clerk, and for marshal respectively, in like manner be nominated also for their offices.

It may be said many voters will not like to show their preferences in this manner. Even so; but this will not injure one candidate more than another, and we shall, I think, get a substantial indication of the average wish of the whole electorate.

Let us try this method and see how it will work.

EDGAR LEAVITT.

CORONER'S INQUEST.

At the Pulliam Undertaking parlors, Thursday afternoon, Coroner Hartwell held an inquest on the remains of Francisco Gonzales, a Mexican laborer who was burned to death at Chatsworth last Tuesday night. The testimony developed the story of the fatality as follows: A party of ten or a dozen workers on the railroad bunked in a car at Chatsworth; the car being fitted up for that purpose. Tuesday evening they "turned in" about 8:30 o'clock. Probably one of the number continued to smoke a cigarette after going to his bunk, for about 10:30 they were awakened by the burning of the car.

In the hurry and confusion all rushed for the doors at once, which being opened caused the flames to burn more fiercely. The most of the party escaped without being seriously injured, but two or three of the gang were burned seriously and were taken to the hospital, where they still remain. It is supposed that Gonzales opened the door of the car and that the swift rush of flames or smoke overcame him and that he fell down, being overlooked by the others as they rushed out. After the fire had burned out, his body, half consumed by the flames, was discovered. He was aged about 25 and was a lately imported "Chollo" from Mexico. The jury rendered a verdict of accidental death.

Own Your Own Mind.

Have you ever considered the possibility of doing this? Remember that living in a rented mind, furnished with opinions bought on the installment plan, never offers any inducement with it for the future. Not only this, but you are not saving up anything.

The advantages of owning your own mind will be apparent at a moment's thought.

In the first place, you come to take a personal interest, which you do not feel when it is owned by some one else. Then again the natural increase in value redounds to your own profit. You have no one to dictate to you as to the inside furnishings and decorations. Besides, it makes you more particular with regard to what you put into it. If you live in a rented mind you don't care much. You will drive nails in the walls and get generally careless about it. But when you own your own mind you are constantly going about picking it up. You take real pride in it.

Be it ever so humble, there is no place like a mind that you own yourself.—Life.

Length of Dreams.

Three physicians were discussing the matter of the length of dreams.

"One afternoon," said one of them, "I called to see a patient, and, much to my satisfaction, I found him sleeping soundly. I sat by his bed, felt of his pulse without disturbing him and waited for him to awaken. After a few minutes a junk dealer's cart with discordant ringing bells turned into the street, and as their first tones reached us my patient opened his eyes.

"'Doctor,' he said, 'I'm glad to see you and awfully glad that you woke me, for I have been tortured by a most distressing dream that must have lasted for several hours. I dreamed that I was sick, as I am, and that my boy came into the room with a string of most horribly sounding sleighbells and rang them in my ears, while I hadn't power to move or speak to him. I suffered tortures for what appeared to be an interminable time. I'm so glad you woke me.'

"The ringing of those bells for one second had caused all of that dream and just at the waking moment."

Tough Turkey.

Mark Twain when he worked in Nevada on the Virginia City Enterprise inserted in the news a good many boarding house jokes.

In revenge the humorist's sensitive fellow boarders in Virginia City decided to put up a game on him. They enlisted the landlady's help, and at the Thanksgiving dinner at the boarding house Mark Twain by a dexterous piece of sleight of hand was served apparently direct from the fowl with a turkey leg of painted wood.

The humorist sawed away solemnly at the wooden leg for some time. Then he said to the landlady, with a smile:

"You've changed your poultry dealer, haven't you, ma'am?"

"Why, no, Mr. Clemens," she replied. "What makes you think so?"

"This turkey," he answered, giving the wooden drumstick a little whack with his knife. "It's about the tenderest morsel I've struck in this house for some months."

A Modest Judge.

A certain prominent English jurist was transferred from the chancery court to the admiralty court rather unexpectedly. While conversant with English law to a surprising degree, this gentleman had spent little time in marine law and was rather dubious as to his ability to cope with the duties of his new office. His colleagues, in recognition of the occasion, gave him a dinner, after which he was called upon for an address. He made a long and serious speech, which embraced about everything from free trade to England's foreign policy. Then, pausing a moment, he glanced round the crowded room and said:

"Gentlemen, in closing I can think of no better words than the lines of Tennyson:

"And may there be no moaning of the bar
When I put out to sea."

To Munch a Viper.

Though the prescription seems to have disappeared from the pharmacopoeia of modern "beauty specialists," it was for centuries notorious that to feed on snake meat was the way to win perpetual youth; to cure goiter, again, or any other swelling, all that was necessary was to munch a viper, from the tail up, as it might be a stick of celery, while yet another snake, if eaten, conferred the power of understanding all the tongues of birds.

Costly Counsel.

"I can understand all you have to say on the subject in an hour's time," said the judge.

"Beg pardon, your honor," persisted the young lawyer, "but I shall consume at least five hours in my argument."

"Very well; have it your own way," said the judge, with resignation. "But it will take the prisoner about five years to tell why he employed you."—Harper's Weekly.

Inherited.

"Where did Phlyem get his propensity for ballooning?"

"I don't know, but his grandfather died in the air."

"Above the trees?"

"No; under one."—New York Journal.

A Pessimist.

"A pessimist," said a philosopher, "is one who, when he has the choice of two evils, chooses both and hangs about waiting for more."

Just a Fit.

In the Ex-Libris Journal an amusing anecdote is given of a man anxious for a coat of arms and fortunate in finding one. A secondhand bookseller bought at a country sale some 300 volumes of handsome but unsalable old sermons, books on theology and the like.

He placed a number of these outside his shop. Soon afterward a well dressed man entered and said, "Have you any more of this kind of books with this shield on them?" pointing to the bookplate attached, which bore the arms and name of a good old country family.

"That box, sir, is full of books from the same house," answered the bookseller.

"What do you ask for them?" inquired the man. "I'm going back to Chicago, and I want to take some books, and these will just fit me, name and all. Just you sort out all that have that shield and name, but don't you send any without that nameplate, for that's my name too. I reckon this old fellow with the daggers and roosters might have been related to me some way."

Picking a Horse.

A British cavalry officer, speaking of horses, said:

"Give me a free hand and I should pick a roan—that is, for good temper and quick learning. Dark grays and blacks are mostly strong and hardy, and so are dark chestnuts. As a general rule, light chestnuts and light bays are nervous and delicate. A rusty black's a sulky pig nine times out of ten. Then, again, there are 'white stockings,' as they call them. You know the old saying, 'One white leg's a bad un, two white legs you may sell to a friend, three white legs you may trust for a time, four white legs you may lay your life on.'"

This does not agree with an old Yankee saying:

One white foot, buy him;
Two white feet, try him;
Three white feet, look well about him;
Four white feet, go on without him.

Now, however, the American idea is similar to that of the sergeant, and they say, "Four white feet you can stake your life on him."—London Spectator.

An Ingenious Device.

When Sir Robert Perks' school days were over he entered the office of a firm of lawyers and worked very hard. It was no uncommon thing to find him reading law at 5 in the morning, and this often after he had been working late on the previous night. As a matter of fact, he made it an inflexible rule never to be in bed of a morning after 5. To enforce this rule he invented an ingenious device. This consisted of a long glass tube filled with water nicely balanced over his head and attached by a string to an alarm. At the desired hour the bell rang and awakened the sleeper. If within a few seconds he did not leap from his bed and avert the calamity the descending weight of the clock destroyed the balance of the tube, and down poured the water on his guilty head!—From "The Life Story of Sir Robert W. Perks, Bart, M. P.," by Dennis Crane.

The Limit.

There is a blacksmith who has a shop downtown and who has a reputation for good work, especially in the making of ice tongs. But he claims to be an expert on any kind of ironwork.

Recently a man dropped in on him while he was working on a pair of ice hooks.

"I see you are an expert on ice hooks," said the caller.

"Oh, yes! I make ice hooks putty good," remarked the mechanic, "unt I also shoe your horses or do other ironwork yust so good."

"Well," said the caller, "I've got a stove on which the hinges need repairing. Can you fix them?"

The blacksmith drew himself up to his full height and scornfully asked, "Do you think I am a dod gasted jeweler?"—St. Joseph Gazette.

The Comparison.

Dropping into the Garrick club one afternoon, Charles Brookfield, the dramatist, found a well known actor, who happened to be playing David Garrick at the time, reclining in a chair right under the portrait of the immortal "Davy." Brookfield stopped in front of him and looked first at the portrait and then at the man. "By Jove, old fellow," he exclaimed at last, "you grow more and more like Garrick every day!"

"Do you really think so, Brookfield?" returned the delighted victim.

"Yes," came the crushing retort, "and less and less like him every night."—London Tatler.

Unique American Families.

The Harrison family, like the Adams family of Massachusetts, on its illustrious genealogical tree carries the names of one signer of the Declaration of Independence and two presidents of the United States, and in this record the Adamses and the Harrisons stand apart in a class by themselves. These distinctions in one family, it can be noted, will never again be equaled. It remains unique in the history of the country.

An Eye to Safety.

Living Skeleton (president of Freaks' Secret society)—Our organization, ladies and gentlemen, is about perfected. It will be necessary, however, to elect a treasurer. Who shall it be? Chorus of Members—The legless wonder!

Accommodating.

Jinks—Have you got quarters for a dollar, old man? Winks—My vest pocket is rather crowded, but pass it over and I'll try to make room for it.

Jealousy is a secret avowal of one's inferiority.—Massillon.

The Leather of the Egyptians.

The ancient Egyptians were skilled in the art of tanning leather and manufactured it in various ways and for various purposes besides that of furnishing covering for the feet. Indeed, it is to those builders of the pyramids that we are indebted for the first artistic forms of footwear, and, so far as can be ascertained from history and the researches of archaeologists, the Egyptians were the first shoemakers who were worthy of that name. It is a fact, too, that tanners of today employ very much the same methods as did the ancients. About the same materials are used, and the processes are almost precisely similar to those in vogue hundreds of years ago. It is true that tanners of the present day have found a means of greatly shortening the time required to convert a hide into leather and that steam power and modern machinery have done much to expedite and improve the processes of finishing the leather; but, after all, the principals of tanning remain the same as they have been from the first.—London Globe.

Posthaste.

He kicked off his wet boots, slid his tired feet into a pair of carpet slippers, lit his pipe, sat down in the easy chair with a sigh of relief and declared that twenty thousand wild horses couldn't make him stir from the house till morning.

"Henry," remarked the lady with the knitting needles, "you posted that letter I gave you this morning, I suppose?"

"I did, my love," he answered unblushingly.

"I asked ma to postpone her visit for awhile," his wife went on. You see"—

Henry did see. His wife saw too. What she saw was the tired man jump from his chair, kick off his slippers, put on his boots and skip out into the street as if rain was the very thing he liked wading through.

And when, five minutes later, Henry came back with a tale that he'd just been to see how the thermometer outside the postoffice stood she smiled.—London Scraps.

Just Like Eve's Apple.

A fruit supposed to bear the mark of Eve's teeth is one of the many botanical curiosities of Ceylon. The tree on which it grows is known by the significant name of "the forbidden fruit," or "Eve's apple tree." The blossom has a very pleasant scent, but the really remarkable feature of the tree, the one to which it owes its name, is the fruit. It is beautiful and hangs from the tree in a peculiar manner. Orange on the outside and deep crimson within, each fruit has the appearance of having had a piece bitten out of it. This fact, together with its poisonous quality, led the Mohammedans to represent it as the forbidden fruit of the garden of Eden and to warn men against its noxious properties. The mark upon the fruit is attributed to Eve. Why the bite of Adam did not also leave its mark is not known, but as only one piece seems to be missing its loss is ascribed to the woman.

Constable Had the Evidence.

One of Philadelphia's leading corporation lawyers was visiting in New England, and, returning home, he told how he had been arrested there. He had not had a vacation for some years, and, getting into the country, he proceeded to be a boy again.

He struck a piece of country road and ran along for a half mile. He found a fence and vaulted it. He saw a tree and climbed it. Finally he returned to the village. Just as he struck the town a hand was laid on his shoulder, and a man said in a gruff voice:

"Come with me."

"What for?" inquired the other in amazement.

"I'm the constable, and you're under arrest. I've been following you, and I think you're crazy."—Philadelphia Times.

Cool Presence of Mind.

Debtor (to shopgirl)—It's an outrage for your employer to have you present this bill here at the railroad station in the presence of all these people! Tell him I'll attend to the matter as soon as I get home. And now give me a kiss, so the people will think that you are a relative and have come to bid me goodby!—Fliegende Blatter.

A Risky Study.

"Why have you dropped your popular astronomy?" asked the visitor.

"'Cause I got too many lickings," confided Tommy. "The other night I told pa that Mars' face was ever changing, and ma heard me and thought I meant her face. Next thing I didn't get any supper and got a licking besides."—Chicago News.

Ministers Aboard Ship.

A minister aboard ship has always been taken as a "Jonah sign" by seamen. In recent years, however, this superstition has been modified to a certain extent. A young minister, the seamen believe, will not bring as much of a "Jonah" with him as an old one.

Simplicity Itself.

"There are only two points in success."

"What are they?"

"Work and keep other people from working you."

Do It Now.

Decision never becomes easier by postponement, while habit grows stronger every day. Common sense as well as conscience says, "Choose this day."

The feet of Fate are tender, for she sets her steps not on the ground, but on the heads of men.—Homer.

The Pip and the Slip.

Too much mince pie had done the trick.

Little Maimie got a pain in her sash and had to go to bed.

The family physician and his top hat called and prescribed a pill. Maimie's mother said very well, but the family physician did not know Maimie, and she was quite sure Maimie would not take the pill. The family physician said he would make it a sweet pill, but Maimie's mother replied that so long as it was a pill it would be no use.

Then the family physician was struck with a brilliant idea. The pill should be craftily concealed in the center of a preserved pear and sent up to little Maimie to eat.

An hour later Maimie's mother went to see how her sweetest dear was going on. She appeared to be going on excellently.

"And did my pet eat all her pear?" inquired the fond mother.

"Yes, mumsie," replied the little darling, "all but the nasty seed."

There's many a slip 'twixt the pear and the pip.—London Answers.

Bituminous Coal.

The first bituminous coal mined in the United States, states the United States geological survey, was taken from what is usually termed the Richmond basin, a small area in the southeastern portion of Virginia, near the city of Richmond. This basin is situated on the eastern margin of the Piedmont plateau, thirteen miles above tidewater, on the James river. It lies in Goochland, Henrico, Powhatan and Chesterfield counties. The coal beds are much distorted, and the coal is of rather low grade when compared with that from other districts with which it has to come into competition. The occurrence of coal was known in the Richmond basin as early as 1700, and in 1789 shipments were made to some of the northern states. At present what little coal is produced in this field is for local consumption only.—Scientific American.

Movement of Icebergs.

In the investigation of the currents round the coast of Newfoundland it has been observed that there is at times a wide difference in the direction of the drift of icebergs and that of the flat or pan ice, which, having no great depth, is governed in its motions by the surface currents and the winds, whereas the icebergs, the larger parts of which are submerged to a great depth, follow only the movement of the ocean water as a whole and are uninfluenced by the winds. In consequence a huge berg may often be seen majestically maintaining its slow advance in opposition to the wind and across the general motion of the fields of flat ice surrounding it. The sealers often take advantage of this fact by mooring their vessels to an iceberg in order to prevent a drift to leeward.—Philadelphia Record.

Hunting the Kangaroo.

When brought to bay the kangaroo jumps like a flash for the hunter's chest and tries to crush it in with his fore feet. To prevent this each man wears across his breast a two or three inch thick matting. Armed with a spear, with a club attachment at the other end, they ride upon swift horses into a herd. With the agility and equipoise of circus riders they stand erect upon their horses and use their spears and clubs.

The kangaroo is able to jump clear over a horse. As the game is bagged it is skinned, and the skin is stretched on the ground and pegged down to prevent shrinkage. The flesh furnishes meat for the camp. Each man places his private mark upon his booty, and when they have 100 apiece they return back to civilization.

Why He Searched.

The old man had evidently dropped something in the muddy road, and he began searching for it. In three minutes about thirty strangers had joined in the search, and every additional minute brought additional searchers, till at last one, bolder than the rest, plucked up heart and spoke:

"What are you looking for?" he inquired.

"My friend," mumbled the old man, "I have dropped a piece of taffy candy."

"But, great Scott," cried another of the crowd angrily, "why do you go looking for it when it will be covered with dirt?"

"Because, my inquisitive friend," replied the old man, "my false teeth are sticking to that taffy."

Strange Hiding Place.

False teeth are occasionally used for secretive purposes. An eccentric old lady boasts of a roof plate which consists of two thin sheets of gold between which a miniature copy of her will is inserted. In a similar manner a dyer preserves a prescription which he declares he would not disclose for a large sum.—London Mail.

Envious.

"Just think of it!" said the student of immigration. "Many men who come to this country cannot write their own names."

"Yes," answered Mr. Pinchpenny, "and when I get down my check book on the first of the month I am inclined to envy them."—Washington Star.

Fixing the Break.

"They were both broken up by their separation."

"But I understand they've effected a reconciliation and are now re-paired."—St. Louis Star.

There is no teacher like necessity; it has been the making of man; it wakes up his dormant faculties and stimulates to action his latent talents.

Do You Really Love Dogs?

Perhaps the final test of anybody's love of dogs is willingness to permit them to make a camping ground of the bed. There is no other place in the world that suits the dog quite so well. On the bed he is safe from being stepped upon, he is out of the way of drafts, he has a commanding position from which to survey what goes on in the world, and, above all, the surface is soft and yielding to his outstretched limbs. No mere man can ever be so comfortable as a dog looks. Some persons object to having a dog on the bed at night, and it must be admitted that he lies a little heavily upon one's limbs, but why be so base as to prefer comfort to companionship? To wake up in the dark night and put your hand on that warm, soft body, to feel the beating of that faithful heart—is not this better than undisturbed sloth? The best night's rest I ever had was once when a cocker spaniel puppy, who had just recovered from stomach ache (dose one to two soda mints) and was a little frightened by the strange experience, curled up on my shoulder like a fur tippet, gently pushed his cold, soft nose into my neck and there slept sweetly and soundly until morning.—H. C. Merwin in Atlantic.

Absentminded Dyer.

Charles Lamb had a friend named George Dyer who was perhaps the most absentminded man on record. It was Dyer who, leaving Lamb's Islington home at broad noonday, walked straight into the New river. He was known to take up a coal scuttle instead of his hat, to walk home with a footman's cockaded hat on and even to leave one of his shoes under the table and get well on his homeward way before discovering his loss. He called at a friend's one morning, heard that the family was away in the country, left his name in the visitors' book, and a few hours later called again, asked for the book again and was astonished to see his own freshly written name. Once, when Proctor breakfasted with him, Dyer forgot the tea. The omission being noted, he filled the teapot with ginger. Proctor left as soon as he could to get a better breakfast at a coffee tavern, and there Dyer strolled in and asked him how he did, quite unconscious of having seen him earlier.

Lawyers' Wills.

A remarkable specimen of a lawyer's invalid will was that of Sir Joseph Jeckyll, master of the rolls, who died in 1738 and bequeathed his fortune after his wife's death to pay off the national debt. "Sir Joseph was a good man and a good lawyer," was Lord Mansfield's comment, "but his bequest was a very foolish one. He might as well have attempted to stop the middle arch of London bridge with his full bottomed wig." The testator's patriotic intentions were therefore treated as proof of mental weakness, and his will was promptly set aside. Among the many blundering wills that lawyers have made for their clients, if not for themselves, the strangest on record was that of a Dublin gentleman who left all his money to the elder son of his brother and, if he had no elder son, to the second.—London Chronicle.

Raindrops.

Drops of rain vary in their size perhaps from a twenty-fifth to a quarter of an inch in diameter. In parting from the clouds they precipitate their descent till the increasing resistance opposed by the air becomes equal to their weight, when they continue to fall with uniform velocity. This velocity is therefore in a certain ratio to the diameter of the drops; hence thunder and other showers in which the drops are large pour down faster than a drizzling rain. A drop of the twenty-fifth part of an inch in falling through the air would, when it had arrived at its uniform velocity, acquire a celerity of only eleven and a half feet per second, while one of a quarter of an inch would have a velocity of thirty-three and a half feet.

A Peacemaker.

It is a commonly accepted belief that nothing short of being pried loose will induce a bulldog to give up his grip on another dog or on an intruder, but this is a mistake. A little household ammonia poured on him as near his nose as circumstances will allow will make him let go immediately. The fumes of ammonia are so overpowering that a dog cannot possibly maintain his grip and his breath at the same time.—Country Life In America.

A Word to Parents.

Never amuse your children at the expense of other people; never allow your children to ridicule other people. Neglect this advice and the time will assuredly come when these children will amuse themselves with your foibles and ridicule your authority.—Exchange.

Which Was the Worse?

"When I returned from our poker party last night my wife just looked at me; not a word was spoken."

"My wife looked at me, too, and I don't believe that a word was unspoken."—Houston Post.

Reaching Conclusion.

"I imagine from your speech that you are a taxidermist."

"What makes you think so?"

"Principally because you tell me I am as wise as an owl and then try to stuff me."—Exchange.

Peaceful.

Mrs. Frost—Who was it that said "Peace, perfect peace?" Frost—Some one whose telephone was out of order.—Life.

Cheerfulness is one of the surest indications of good sense.

Temples of Siam.

Once a year all the Buddhist temples in Siam are visited by the king or his deputies, bearing the phra kathin (yellow robes), in conformity with an ancient custom by which the priests were made to seek their apparel for the ensuing year. During the lifetime of Buddha monks and priests were sent out to beg for old castoff garments, which were afterward dyed yellow and patched together to form the required robes. This ancient mendicant custom gradually gave place to the present one of making the garments from a new cloth of a bright canary yellow, provided by joint contributions of king, princes, nobles and commoners. When the king goes in the royal throne barge to present the robes in person he does so with great pomp and ceremony. The priestly garments, folded in bundles, are carried to the door of the temple to await the appearance of his majesty and his suit. The king on arriving takes a priestly robe and places it on a decorated altar. The chief priest then lays his hands on the garment and chants an acknowledgment.—Wide World Magazine.

Won by His Wit.

A story is told of an English clergyman who owed his appointment to a rich living to a lucky pun. He was tutor to the son of a nobleman and had not long taken orders when he attended the funeral of the rector of the parish in which the nobleman's seat was situated. The father of his pupil was patron of the living and was also present at the funeral of the deceased rector. There was a young clergyman present also whose grief was so demonstrative that the noble patron was much affected by the sight and asked if the young man was a son of the deceased gentleman.

"Oh, dear, no, my lord—no relation at all," said the tutor.

"No relation!" exclaimed the nobleman in a surprised tone.

"None, my lord. He is the curate, and I think he is not weeping for the dead, but for the living."

His lordship, who was something of a wit and a cynic himself, was so delighted with the bonmot that he conferred the living upon the ready punster.

Through a Big Telescope.

The first look through a great telescope is disappointing, but the novice soons sees that the flat appearance which the heavens present to the naked eye is replaced by a curious concavity; the moon and stars seem to be hung in space rather than spread out on a flat surface. For a moment one feels at the telescope like a child watching the swift moving balls kept in the air by a juggler and expecting to see one of those great, bright bodies fall. Then comes the thought, What keeps them there, apparently suspended in space with absolutely nothing to hold them firm? The explanation of the learned astronomer causes the brain of the layman to whirl, and he sees himself, perhaps for the first time, as a child gathering pebbles on the great shores of the sea of knowledge or as "an infant in the night, an infant crying for the light, and with no language but a cry."—National Magazine.

The New Hen.

Of the late Atherton Blight, one of the founders of fashionable Newport, a Philadelphian said:

"Mr. Blight was amused by the antics of the militant suffragettes. At a luncheon at the Bellevue he once sat next to a lady with suffragette notions. Plovers' eggs, hard boiled, formed one course, and the lady called Mr. Blight's attention to the high cost of plovers' eggs that year.

"'Even though,' she said, 'they have to be shipped from England, I don't see why their price should have nearly doubled, do you?'

"'Well—er—not exactly,' murmured Mr. Blight, 'though they do say the hen plovers have taken to acting very oddly of late—strutting around, and growing topknots and spurs, and even trying to learn to crow.'"—Exchange.

Court Dress of Laureate.

Tennyson's court dress when he received the laureateship did not cost him much, for it was the same court dress worn by Wordsworth, who in turn had it from the old poet Rogers, and it is still in the Wordsworth family. It is a wonder how Tennyson and Wordsworth got into it, for Rogers was a little fellow. Tennyson had no passion for courts, and so he went in second hand to save cost.—New York Press.

Hot Air Rates.

Benham—I wish you wouldn't use the telephone so much for out of town calls.

Mrs. Benham—I like to talk to mother.

Benham—That's what I object to; I'm tired of paying gas bills.—New York Press.

A Careless Man.

Father—Why have you quarreled with Harry? Daughter—Because he proposed to me last night. Father—Well, there was no harm in that, was there? Daughter—But I had accepted him the night before.—Illustrated Bits.

Perseverance.

Perseverance is more prevailing than violence, and many things which cannot be overcome when they are together yield themselves up when taken little by little.

Strict Obedience.

Salesman—Shirt, sir. Will you have a negligee or a stiff bosom? Customer—Negligee, I guess. The doctor said I must avoid starchy things.—Boston Transcript.

She Wasn't Afraid.

A crowd gathered on the street to watch a handsome fox terrier that was running about, nose in air. White froth was running from the dog's mouth.

"He's mad!" yelled a fat man.

The fox terrier stood in the center of the group with wide open eyes, either too mad or too frightened to move.

At this juncture the policeman arrived. A dozen voices began to tell him that the dog was mad; that it must be killed; that it had been snapping at the children; that it began to froth when it passed a pool of water, and how best to shoot.

A tall, quiet looking woman pushed through the crowd and started toward the dog. A dozen men yelled at her. Two or three men grabbed at her.

She picked the dog up and started out of the crowd. The policeman stopped her with:

"Madam, that dog is mad. He must be shot. Look at the foam coming out of his mouth."

"Foam!" she said contemptuously. "That's a cream puff he was eating."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Printing a Coin on Linen.

The print of a silver coin or medal may be made on silk or linen by dipping the fabric in a solution of nitrate of silver and stretching it over the face of the coin until the image is imprinted. The linen is sensitized by dipping it into a solution of nitrate of silver, made by dissolving sixty or eighty grains of nitrate of silver in one ounce of water. Wet the portion of the cloth which is to receive the impression in the solution and when nearly dry draw it over the face of the coin and tie it at the back. Expose to a weak light, and in a few minutes the raised design of the coin will appear on the linen. As soon as the print is dark enough remove and wash in clear water. When nearly dry iron it smooth with a warm iron, placing a piece of tissue paper over the print. In printing from the coin or medal it is advisable to paste a piece of paper on the reverse side, so that the silver will not come in contact with the sensitized fabric.

Student of Shakespeare.

The office boy sat in the corner busily engaged in reading a book. Strange to say, it was not "The Adventures of Bunko Jim," "Daisy Dean, the Demon Detective," nor even a thrilling narrative of more or less correct life on the plains. He was reading Shakespeare.

An expression of peace and joy was on his face that caused those who knew him to wonder if he had at last experienced a change of heart. His eyes sparkled, and his whole expression was one of happiness. Finally he turned to a worker at another desk.

"Say, Jim," he said, "I've got a question for you. Did you ever read Shakespeare?"

"Yep," was the reply.

"And d'yer know what he talks about?"

"Yep."

"Den maybe you can help me."

"What is it?"

"Well, I want to know which was de man, Romeo or Juliet?"—Youth's Companion.

Losing His Mind.

"Mother, guess you'd better send fer th' doctor," gasped Uncle Charlie Seaver as he sank into a chair and rocked back and forth, holding his gray head.

"Sakes alive! Ye haven't been and got the misery in yer head, have ye, Silas?" gasped his astonished wife, dropping a pie tin.

"I dunno what's the matter, but I've alwus had a hunch my mind 'd go some time. It's cum, I guess. I noticed th' trouble fust last week when I plumb forget to go up an' swear off th' $100 assessment till it was too late. Then I neglected to go to th' school meetin' last night to fight agin the new commissioner. But, wuss and wuss, I didn't guess within eleven pound seven ounces of th' weight of Wal Weaver's big hog killed today. I guess my mind has gone all right. I'm about all in."—Puck.

Tuning Forks.

The tuning fork was the invention of John Stone, royal trumpeter, in 1811. Though the pitch of forks varies slightly with changes of the temperature or by rust, they are the most accurate means of determining pitch. Tuning forks are capable of being made of any pitch within certain limits, but those commonly used are the notes A and C, giving the sounds represented by the second and third spaces in the treble stave.

An Incentive.

"Won't you try to love me?" he sighed.

"I have tried," she replied kindly, but firmly.

"My rich aunt has just died," he went on.

"In that case, dear, I will try again."—Puck.

A Blunt Answer.

Mother (to her daughter)—You'd better accept Peter, my dear. He is a nice boy, though he may not be handsome. After all, good looks fade, don't they, papa? Father—Rather!—Fliegende Blatter.

The Ways of Men.

Many a man who would be unable to find the family Bible if he hunted all day would have no difficulty in putting his hand on the corkscrew, even in the dark.—Chicago Record-Herald.

An Empty Dream.

Bobby—Say, sis, what's a "empty dream?" Dotty—One you have when you've been sent to bed without any supper.—Cleveland Leader.

A Reluctant Candidate.

During a local election in a German town only one man appeared at the nomination desk.

"Whom do you nominate?" inquired the official.

"Myself," was the answer.

"Do you accept the nomination?"

"Well, no."

The officer laughed and said:

"Then we must try again. Whom do you nominate?"

"Myself."

"You accept the nomination?"

"No."

A subdued "Donnerwetter!" escaped the lips of the perplexed official, but he went on:

"For the third time, whom do you nominate?"

"Myself," came the invariable reply.

"Do you accept the nomination?"

The man rose up, and a smile of satisfaction spread over his face as he answered proudly:

"Having been three times solicited by my fellow citizens to accept the nomination, I can no longer decline to accede to their wishes." He then retired.

The Opal.

In judging an opal color is of the greatest importance. Red fire or red in combination with yellow, blue and green is the best. Blue by itself is quite valueless, and the green opal is not of great value unless the color is very vivid and the pattern very good. The color must be true—that is to say, it must not run in streaks or patches, alternating with a colorless or inferior quality. Pattern is an important factor, the several varieties being known as "pin fire" when the grain is very small, "harlequin" when the color is in small squares, the more regular the better, and the "flash fire," or "flash opal," when the color shows as a single flash or in very large pattern. Harlequin is the most common and is also popularly considered the most beautiful. When the squares of color are regular and show as distinct minute checks of red, yellow, blue and green it is considered magnificent. Some stones show better on edge than on top.—Exchange.

Kept Them Dancing.

A Washington official, speaking of blunders in the diplomatic service, told of a mistake committed by an American in Afghanistan. He said:

"This American entertained the shahzada for three days, giving him a very handsome suit of rooms in his house. The morning of the shahzada's arrival the American host visited him in his apartment and was amazed to see the royal guest and his entire staff hopping about the floor in the oddest way. They conversed politely and gravely; but, instead of walking, they hopped, taking great leaps of eight or nine feet. The host ventured to ask the reason of this hopping. The shahzada politely replied:

"'You see, this carpet is green, with pink roses here and there. Green is a sacred color with us, so we are obliged to hop from rose to rose. It is good exercise, but rather fatiguing, I confess.'"

A Lively Office.

In his recollections in Blackwood's Magazine Sir Robert Anderson tells an amusing story of the days when he was employed at the home office. On his arrival one morning at the office he found a note from Sir James Fergusson's private secretary—his intimates called him "Creeper"—announcing that at 3 o'clock precisely an old hat, lately the property of the chief clerk, would be kicked off from the end of the corridor and requesting the favor of Sir Robert's presence. When Big Ben struck 3, Sir Robert heard Creeper's cheery voice ring out, "All on side; play!" They all turned out and the game began. On emerging from an unusually hot scrimmage Sir Robert became conscious of the presence of a stranger at his side, a timid little Frenchman, who meekly inquired, "Is ziss ze office for ze naturalization?" Sir Robert adds: "It was!"

Why He Cried.

The sympathetic neighbor asked: "Is your little brother ill this morning, Johnnie? I heard him crying in the most heartrending manner."

"No; not exactly," Johnnie explained, "but Willie pulled down a jug of molasses on himself in the pantry, and mother has been trying to comb his hair."—Exchange.

Livingstone.

Of Dr. Livingstone it was said by Stanley that the missionary lived for years among the most cruel and ignorant savages in the world, but he never fired a shot in anger, never "clubbed or clouted or banned or blasted." His manner was that of a "cool, wise old man who felt offended and looked grave."

Circumstances Reversed.

Unkempt Smith—Mister, would youse kindly help a poor man as is all in, down and out? Jocular Citizen—Why, certainly. Just climb the fire escape on that skyscraper across the street and walk in on the top floor. Then you will be all out, up and in.—Judge's Library.

It's Good Point.

"But," asked the long haired young man, "is there nothing at all about poetry that you like?"

"Yes," replied Crabbe. "Whenever I see a poem it makes me feel good to realize that there's no law to compel me to read it."—Catholic Standard and Times.

No grip is so hard to shake off as that of early convictions.—Maurice Thompson.

THE SECRET CHAMBER.
(For the NEWS)
By James M. Wells.

Down in the deep recess of every human breast,
Is a little chamber apart from all the rest;
And there, beneath the reach of curious, prying eyes,
Invulnerable to seige and safe against surprise,
Are faithfully guarded like knighted castles old,
The burdens of the heart too sacred to unfold—

The accumulated sorrows of youth and riper age,
The bitter disappointments that Time cannot assuage,
Of the hopes that lie burried there, Ah! who can tell?
With that chamber locked and the key thrown in the well.
And what a revelation there would surely be
If to that chamber we could only find the key.

But the time will come 'tis said when the books shall be unsealed,
And every hidden thought in Judgment stand revealed.
Then the motives and the passions of the human heart,
Will be weighed in the balance and each set apart,
The good on the right, and on the left the other,
With the gates between closed forever and forever.

BOARD OF TRADE TO HAVE A CELEBRATION.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Trade was held at the city hall last Monday evening.

The officers for the coming year having been selected at the January meeting with the exception of secretary, Mr. J. M. Banker was elected to fill that position. The question of celebrating the completion of the municipal lighting system, probably in April, was discussed at some length, unanimous opinion being expressed that the event should be celebrated in a manner that would be appropriate and of an extent to call the attention of outsiders particularly to the good work done. A committee was appointed to take charge of the matter, consisting of the following: C. A. Shaver, F. L. Church, J. M. Banker, J. J. Muhleman, Chas. Giblyn, S. W. Johnson and J. G. Sherer. It was decided to request the Tuesday Afternoon Club to assist in making the day a success. To raise funds for the purpose an entertainment will probably be given in the near future.

If you cannot call at the office please call Sunset 501 or Home 684.

A CHEERFUL OUTLOOK.

Making It Pleasant For the Studious Traveler.

An English tourist traveling on foot through one of our mountainous regions, studying the people, asked a man whom he met to direct him to a certain cabin at which he had been advised to stay overnight. "Going thar?" said the man. "Well, Tom's a first rater, take him just right, but he's mighty queer."

"What do you mean?" asked the traveler.

"Well, it's like this," and the man looked at the stranger in a calm, impersonal way. "He'll be setting outside, most probably, and he'll see you coming. He'll take a good look at you, and ef you don't suit him he may set the dog on you.

"Ef he don't and you get to talking with him and say anything he don't just like he may throw you down and tromp on you. But ef you're too careful in your talk, on the other hand, he's liable to take you for a spy and use his gun fust and listen to explanations afterward."

"But it's no use trying to get by without stopping," concluded the man, with evident relish of the prospect he was opening up to the stranger. "Ef you was to undertake that 'twould be all up with you, for he'd think you was proud and biggetty.

"Ef you want to come out of the mountain whole, don't go past Tom's cabin without stopping, whatever you do!"—Youth's Companion.

The Unemployed.

Lack of employment is not a new question. Says the Liverpool Mercury of Feb. 14, 1812: "It is of the highest importance that a committee of the legislature should immediately inquire into the causes of the present want of employment among the laboring classes and whether means might not be found in a nation of which the revenue is immense by which a succession of public works," etc. There were at that time 16,000 unemployed in Liverpool. The same writer after asking "Is war the only employment that the state has to give the poor?" goes on to show that the pyramids of Egypt and the "elegant edifices of Greece" were built with the object of "giving continual employment to the laborer."

Chandler, Mr. and Mrs. William Doust of Spokane, Wash., Mrs. C. L. Chandler, Mrs. E. H. Weston, Miss Bessie Chandler.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Chandler and their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. William Doust of Spokane, Wash., enjoyed a trip to Catalina Island this week. They left Tropico Tuesday morning, remaining over night and returned Wednesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Doust are very well pleased with Tropico and Southern California in general.

A public sale of pastries, baked beans, salads and everything that goes with them is going on at Logan's hall today. The affair is under the direction of the Household Economics section of the Thursday Afternoon club and the proceeds of the event will go to help pay for the lot which the ladies purchased recently on Blanche avenue.

Excellent pictures of the Tropico grammar school building are being sold by the pupils to help defray the expenses of installing two sanitary drinking fountains in the school. The pictures were taken by Mrs. F. C. Richardson recently and are the finest pictures of this structure taken up to date. Any one wishing to get one can do so by phoning in their order—the children will deliver them.

Much sympathy attended the passing out of William A. Thompson, at Yuma, Ariz., Saturday. Mr. Thompson who was a former resident of Tropico moved to Yuma a year ago, where the change seemed to benefit him. He was a member of the Tropico school board, a trustee of the First Presbyterian church, a member of Glen Eyrie chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, and Past Master of Unity Lodge F. & A. M. of Glendale. Mr. Thompson's obsequies were conducted by the Masons of Yuma. The deceased is survived by the widow and a daughter at Yuma, a daughter and son who reside in Nebraska.

VALENTINE PARTY.

A very pretty Valentine party was given at G. A. R. hall Saturday evening by a number of the younger society folks. The banquet hall was prettily decorated in violets. The party was chaperoned by Mrs. W. A. Hough, Mrs. J. J. Laws, Mrs. S. L. Boning. Music, games and dancing were enjoyed.

ECHOES FROM TROPICO PRESBYTERIANS.

A meeting of the teachers and officers of the Sunday school was held at the home of the pastor on Wednesday evening of this week.

On Sunday morning, February 20th, a patriotic service will be held commemorating the birthday of George Washington. A feature of the service will be the flag drill by our class of entertainers.

Prayer meeting this week was with the Methodists at their edifice on Palmer avenue.

Next Sunday morning the pastor will preach from John 15:5.

A BANK FOR TROPICO.

The establishment of a bank in Tropico is now a matter of only a few weeks before it becomes an actual fact. It will be organized under the state law. Dan Campbell, John Logan and the Richardsons will be in control of the institution but the stock is well distributed among many of the solid men of Tropico and vicinity. The capitalization will be $25,000 and that limit has already been exceeded in the subscriptions to the stock. Temporary quarters will be occupied until such time as a bank building can be erected. Although there are already two banks in Glendale, nearby, there is no doubt but that the new concern will do a good business, as there is a large amount of local money still kept in Los Angeles banks, which will be diminished in quantity by the new bank.

WHAT THE METHODISTS OF TROPICO ARE DOING.

A meeting of the Fourth department of the Epworth League of the local Methodist church was held at the home of the chairman, Miss Fannie Marple, corner Parke avenue and Brand boulevard, Wednesday evening. Arrangements were completed for the district convention of the league which will be held in this church on the 18th of this month. Plans were also made for the birthday party which the league will give in the G. A. R. hall about March 23d.

Union revival services between the Methodist and Presbyterian churches of this place will begin in the Methodist church on the evening of Feb. 20. Herbert Sarrar, a gospel singer and worker of Gardena, will be present and assist in the services. The preaching will be done by Rev. Henderson C. Shoemaker and Rev. W. C. Botkin. At least, the series will continue two weeks.

The Sunday school last Sunday was large and the morning preaching was very well attended. In the evening an orchestra of ten pieces assisted in the music. There was one accession to the church.

Tropico Babies Are Feted

Mrs. William Harvey, jr., and Mrs. Oliver J. Merrill gave a very unique and pleasant baby party at their home on Tropico avenue, yesterday afternoon, from 2 to 4. For the affair the pretty rooms were made even more attractive by an abundance of spring blossoms and greenery.

The afternoon was passed in admiring and listening to the earnest, yet meaningless chatter of the little tots, some of which have hardly outgrown the cooing age. The object of each [illegible] party with which they lambkin, alone, could understand the many wonderful truths that he or she was vainly endeavoring to impress on the company of friends assembled, the little ones enjoyed it.

During the afternoon a pretty prize was given to the best-behaved baby, and at an appointed hour dainty refreshments were served.

The mothers whose little one enjoyed this affair were Mrs. Payne, Mrs. Morris Cooke, Mrs. E. M. Lynch, Mrs. Davids, Mrs. H. Clay Seaman and Mrs. Oliver J. Merrill. Besides these ladies were present, Mrs. C. H. Scheu, Mrs. Joseph Kirkby, Mrs. William Kirkby, Mrs. Burt Richardson, Mrs. A. L. Bancroft, Mrs. Lee Bancroft, Mrs. J. H. Seaman, Mrs. E. Forden, Mrs. O. A. Conrad, Mrs. William Harvey, jr., and Mrs. A. H. Sellers of Pasadena.
